Description

A very elegant antique mahogany round tiered side table of classic Georgian design, beautifully proportioned and rich in colour. The three circular tiers are graduated and supported by a turned central column, standing on a shaped tripod base with pad feet, giving the piece a refined and balanced presence. The circular form allows it to be used from all sides, making it particularly practical within a room. The tiered design provides generous space for display, drinks, or serving, while maintaining a compact footprint. Originally used in dining rooms as a serving stand, these pieces acted as an early form of buffet, holding dishes, drinks and tableware during meals so everything could be easily reached. Today it works perfectly as a tiered side table, buffet server, drinks stand, or bar table, making it highly versatile for modern living. The rich mahogany tone and simple, elegant construction are characteristic of well-made Georgian furniture, designed with both function and longevity in mind. Condition Report Presented in good antique condition with a warm, aged patina. There are surface marks and wear to the tiers as shown, consistent with age and use, adding to i...
