Description

A very good example of an early 18thc Queen Anne single brass candlestick....it is of the quality you would expect to find on a silver example from this date, but in brass they are very much harder to find..... it stands on a raised wide hexagonal (six sided) base and has a large elongated central "tear drop" knop..... finished off with an attractive shaped candle socket....it is of seamed construction and in excellent condition with a natural colour from years of use. English. C1710-15.
