

SA1046803

Large antique 19th century Solid Silver Paste Stone Religious Saint Brooch

Price

GBP 350

| USD $474 | EUR 410

Item Reference: SA1046803Date of manufacture: 19th Century

Description

An European Antique 18th century Solid Silver and Paste brooch served as an adornment for religious Saints' costumes. Crafted during the Georgian period, this brooch represents the artistic taste of the 18th century. Made from Solid Silver, the brooch carries the elegance and craftsmanship of the era, weighing 52 grams. The use of Paste jewels, a special flint glass invented by Georges Frederic Stras in 1724 in France, adds a touch of sophistication. These Paste jewels were renowned for their ability to imitate gemstones, making them a popular choice for jewelry during the Georgian period. Measuring an impressive 15cm x 10cm, features five Paste jewels. This piece carries with it the history of religious attire during the 18th century.

Seller Details

Nicholas Tempest

Gloucestershire United Kingdom

Tel: 07887 683468

International Tel: +44 7887 683468

