Description

An attractive Regency rosewood occasional table with label inside for William Hean. Fine quality carved stem & scroll feet & Tudor rose patera. Note: Hean was active at his first premises at Little Wild Street between around 1815 and 1835, entering into a partnership with William Prentice. He moved to Great Russell Street in 1836. A number of labelled Hean pieces are recorded, some similarly labelled twice. Literature: A library table by Hean and further notes on the maker can be found in C.Gilbert's 'Pictorial Dictionary of Marked London Furniture' (F.H.S. 1996) circa 1825
