Description

A fabulous silver card case from the elegant 1920's. This superb example is of good gauge silver and is formed to replicate an envelope. It has a hinged lid which opens to reveal a fully gilded interior. Novelty silver items are always in demand and these 'envelope' cases are usually small and made for stamps. The capacity of this rare example, makes it suitable for business or credit cards and it is as practical today as when it was made, almost 100 years ago. Dimensions below.
