Description

An eye catching silver three piece cruet dating from the elegant Edwardian era. The bodies are rounded, with flared undulating rims and finial knobs to the lids. The mustard pot has a shaped handle and the pepper has a pull of lid. Both the mustard and the salt tub have highly attractive gilt bowls, which really sets this cruet apart from the rest. The set also is complimented with a matching hallmarked silver spoon. A lovely and practical trio and a ready-to-go gift idea. Dimensions below.
