Description

A good example of a particularly large harvest jug dating from the mid to late 19th century, believed to be by Verwood Pottery. It has an earthenware body with a glazed rim and handle. It is in good condition for its age. It is a very rustic piece with natural imperfections in the glaze and a rough surface with fabulous patina. There are some signs of age and use, a few small marks and minor scuffs but no major damages and it displays very well. The best description comes from the photos so please look at them all carefully and if you have any questions just ask. Tracked UK Delivery £15
