Description

Here is a super stylish three branch floor lamp, comprising of a three claw footed base with gilded acanthus leaf motif, central fluted column, terminating in a gilded capital from which the three cupped arms radiate. Made in brass, and other metals, the lamp is weighty and sturdy, and has a beautiful two tone effect where the darker metals really stand out against the golds. The finials and detailing area really beautiful with Greek Key patterns making way to leaf forms and acanthus scrolls. I have had the lamp professionally rewired by leading antique lighting restorers - Agapanthus Interiors of Stockport. It is fitted in a corded flex and has a foot operated on/off button that sits on the floor. Looking equally as good with or without shades, the lamp comes with the three modern shades pictured, free of charge (I bought them to take the photographs). The lamp is in good antique condition, but does have the wear to be expected of a piece of this age. The base has a few tarnish scuffs and tiny dings, but as I hope the photographs show, do not detract from its overall beauty at all - please have a good look to see. The lamp stands 135cm tall, the base is 29cm acr...
