Description

Spanish Eclectic Victorian 19th Century Oil Painting Portrait Young Kitten Patience Hunting Fly By Francisco José Domingo y Marqués. Subject portrait of a beautiful young ginger & white kitten animal who is on the floor hunting watching a fly intensely with such curiosity. A fallen single pink rose petal is laying on the floor at the bottom. To the right is a deep red blanket, above a branch with a pink rose flower and green leaf foliage on. The hue colours are so striking which really captures the eye. Impress your clients or guests to your office or home interior wall space & add this striking statement artwork to your collection. Title "Patience". A fine early example of his work. Oil on canvas. Origin from Spain. Unsigned. Name plaque at the bottom which reads F D Marques 1842 for Francisco José Domingo y Marqués. Circa mid 19th century 1860's. Set in the original heavy deep moulded & gilded frame which really enhances this painting. A nice size with the frame being 78 cm high and 69 cm wide. Artist biography Francisco José Domingo y Marqués (12 March 1842 – 22 July 1920) was a Spanish painter in the Eclectic style. He was born in Valencia, where he began his studi...
