Description

No sooner had we acquired this quite rare Charles Horner "Baby" ring, then another dropped straight into our laps! We have two on offer, the one here which has pale turquoise blue enamel and another, with darker royal blue enamel, listed separately (see photos). The ring would have been worn by a child growing up in the Edwardian period (1901-1914); rings for children are not so much in fashion these days but it makes a super-cute pendant to hang on a chain, ribbon or pin and would be a cherished love token for your beloved. Inside the ring is stamped with the lovely Charles Horner CH monogram and STERLING SILVER. It's in very good condition, with no denting but slight loss to the enamel on the first letter B (if you look under magnification, otherwise very hard to see). Size: Too tiny to be measured on a standard sizer, the ring is approximately 1.2cm diameter and measures 0.5cm north-south at the front. Weight: 0.5g. FREE INTERNATIONAL SHIPPING! Antique boxes and chains pictured are not included unless specified, your item will come in a new box.
