Description

A fine quality marquetry panel depicting ducks by a lake. The panel is beautifully brought to life by the careful selection of various woods which work superbly with the subject depicted, these include birch, maple, walnut, and coromandel. The ducks are British breeds and really are well observed in a variety of positions. The lake setting does remind one of Scotland or the north of England. The marquetry panel is beautifully framed by walnut and a simple mahogany edge, as a sign of the quality it is even very nicely veneered on the reverse in walnut. This type of marquetry panel is often associated with the Rowley Gallery which commissioned artist at the beginning of the twentieth century to create designs for wooden panels. This piece is not marked but it is certainly of the quality of these Rowley panels if not better. C.1920. Overall sizes in inches: 25 by 18
