Description

Victorian walnut inlaid credenza Here we are delighted to offer you a Victorian walnut inlaid credenza that was made circa 1870. It is a rare design as it has a concave central door. Usually, the centre cupboard has a flat door. Having the concave shape shows that this would have been a more expensive Victorian credenza to construct. It meant that that the top and plinth had also to be concave, thus taking a lot longer to make. It has a serpentine glazed door to each end cupboard with the lined shelves behind the doors. To the centre of the Victorian credenza is a panel door that has the wonderfully inlaid walnut panel to the door that opens to reveal the shelved and lined interior. The Victorian walnut inlaid credenza has gilt brass mounts and brass moulding running around the frieze. This is the best Victorian walnut inlaid credenza of its type on the market. It as been restored and now is ready to look fantastic in your home. 168cms wide 66ins 41cms deep 16 1/4ins 107cms high 42ins All measurements are as accurate as possible.
