Description

This wonderfully crafted and intricate 14ct gold mourning brooch was made in the Georgian period c.1800 and features a wonderful array of embellishments. The brooch itself is shaped in a cartouche design with a central cartouche which is surrounded by a border of seed pearls. The outer border features a finely hand-chased floral motif which encompasses the black enamel with gold lettering. The reverse side features a c clasp pin and a later added safety chain. Overall, a finely crafted and quality piece of Georgian jewellery with an impressive amount of detail in a modest form. The gold mount is unmarked as is common with many articles of this period. As such, we have tested it for 14ct gold. All our jewellery come with a complimentary modern hard shell gift box with a velvet interior. Please note, any other antique boxes/display items are not included unless otherwise stated. Size & Total Weight 3cm x 2.5cm 8.1g/0.26 troy oz Condition: Good antique condition with no major issues/damage. There is one small area of enamel damage to the top right (where the letter R is). Otherwise in good condition with only age-related wear commensurate with age and a...
