Description

A 19th century Vion et Baury Paris biscuit porcelain figurine of a lady sleeping in an armchair. A fine example of the high art of the famous French porcelain manufacturer. The marvellous meticulous craftsmanship has made Vion Baury's work the object of intense scrutiny by collectors around the world. Manufactured by Vion Et Baury in Choisy-le-Roi, France, circa 1870s, marked with an embossed applied blue VP stamp on the bottom. Jean Guillet established a porcelain factory on the Rue Paradis-Poissonnière in France around 1845. He mainly produced bisque figurines, which were of very high quality. Its chief modeller was Charles Baury, who later, together with Desiree Vion, took control of the factory and it became known as Vion and Baury, and in 1875 production was moved to Choisy-le-Roi. Both factories won several medals at world exhibitions. height 18 cm width 10 cm depth 14 cm weight 875 g The arms of the chair on which the lady is sitting have been broken off on both sides. A small chip on the flower on the lady's chest. Otherwise a wonderful antique condition-preservation of details and colouring. Please carefully regard all photos. The item will be shipped wit...
