Description

Studio of Sir Joshua Reynolds (Plympton 1723-1792 London) Portrait of Richard Burke (1758-1794) The sitter is depicted half-length, wearing a red overcoat over a white chemise and frilled lace cravat. This version relates to two portraits of the sitter by Reynolds and is most likely derived from the later one, now in the Collection of Earl Spencer, Althorp, which was probably painted shortly after 1782, when Richard became a member of the The Club. Richard Burke (1758-1794) The only son of Edmund Burke and Jane Mary Nugent, Richard Burke (9 February 1758 – 2 August 1794) was a barrister and Member of Parliament. After being educated at Christ Church, Oxford, he was called to the bar at the Middle Temple in 1780. In 1794, Richard was elected Member of Parliament for Malton, North Yorkshire, in succession to his father who resigned his seat in the same year, but fell ill soon afterwards, and died at the early age of thirty-six. Sir Joshua Reynolds P.R.A (1723 -1792) Reynolds was the leading English portraitist of the 18th century. Through stud...
