Description

Very rare early (first period) Scottish art glass Monart bowl in the "Paisley Shawl" pattern. This wonderful blue bowl is absolutely superb and is in perfect condition. It displays the very earliest "Cruciform Pontil" to the base. A very rare piece of early Monart glass. Stunning colours. SIZE; 9" diameter by 3" tall CIRCA; 1925 Monart glass was all started by Salvador Ysart and Isabel Moncrieff and Ysart's three sons in the early 1920's in Perth Scotland. The three brothers; Vincent, Augustine and Salvador then split up from their father and formed Vasart Glass (originally named Ysart Brothers) in 1947. The two firms then both produced similar style of glass simultaneously for a period before Vasart glass became Strathearn Glass in 1965. We can only put early pieces of Monart glass on here because of the dateline of 1930 for glass on Sellingantiques. For the full range of Monart, Vasart and Strathearn glass please visit our own website.
