Description

Hi I have for sale a 1890 solid brass French crystal regulator mantel clock that is in original condition for the age with an original gilded case and fully serviced eight day striking movement run via the original pendulum, what sets this clock apart from others is the larger size of the clock and the rare green marble inset panels and front it is very unique. The Case The case is in solid shiny brass with it is a very heavy clock standing 37cm high x 23cm wide with a depth of 17cm it is in very good original condition and has been very well looked after over the years, with 10 nil thick bevelled marble on all four sides the front and back are doors which both open with ease all in mint condition. The Dial The dial is in mint original condition inset as part of the light green marble panel, I have never seen another like this it has been done so a gilded centre piece has been added with flowers in gilt, all set off with the gilt Roman numerals, the original gilt ornate hands and original pendulum and original key are still present. The front gilded work catches the sun against the green plate which looks simply beautiful on display. The Movement The movement is an eight day striking movement.
