Description

A captivating antique 15ct gold amethyst mourning ring dating from the Georgian period. A stunning oval foil backed amethyst is adorned with a row of creamy white pearls, gently surrounding it. Pretty openwork shoulders lead to a decorative band, overall lending itself to a truly wonderful design. The rear is inscribed, "Sarah Andrew died 12 Oct' 1814 Aged 64". As sentimental as they are romantic, mourning, also known as memorial rings were popular throughout Georgian and Victorian times. A part of our antique gold ring collection. SIZE UK N / US 6 ½

SPECIFICATION Face dimensions. 12.5 x 15.5mm Weight. 3.3 grams 15k gold ERA Georgian – 1815

CONDITION Very Good - Excellent – This antique 15ct gold amethyst mourning ring has stood the test of time of over 200 years magnificently. The amethyst has some light abrasions only, almost all pearls are in perfect order, just a few have minor signs of deterioration. The gold metalwork is in remarkable condition with a fantastic highly polished finish. The overall structure of the ring is sound. Bearing in mind the age and type of ring, we would recommend it for dress wear rather everyday.
