Description

This is a handsome William IV period mahogany armchair in excellent clean condition dating from around 1837. The chair has a very attractive style with tapering fluted legs out scrolling arms and carved acanthus to the back and central carved back splat. The seat has its original velvet covered upholstery in good useable order. The construction of the chair is excellent with good solid joints. This is a very good example with a lovely colour and warm patina. The chair measures 90 cms high 53 cms wide by 58 cms deep. The seat height is 48 cms with 44 cms between the arms and 46 cms depth. UK delivery can be arranged with our trusted furniture courier and costs £55 plus vat to most destinations.
