The painting depicts a peaceful, detailed and well-balanced rustic scene, showing a rocky foreground, a meandering river, gentle hills to the left and sheep grazing in distant pastures. The artist captures the hazy atmospherics of the day, probably early afternoon, along with the depth and stillness of the river - a fisherman's paradise! It is believed to be the River Severn, before it leaves Wales, as this painting came from the Shropshire / Welsh border, where it has resided for...
