Description

This is a lovely 19th century landing net with a good colour and great character dating from around 1880. The Victorian pole is in bamboo with turned brass ferrule connectors that slot together. The net frame itself is in hand forged iron and remarkably the original net is well preserved. The poles have a reach of 216 cms when together and the iron hoop is 32 cms across. A really nice collectors piece or great wall decoration for a rural pub or country retreat. UK insured packing and delivery is £20
