Description

We are delighted to offer this unique and exquisite Victorian solid silver card case with marks for Alfred Taylor, Birmingham 1861. This case is made from a sturdy gauge of silver and features an elegant cartouche-like overall form with scrolled edges. What is particularly delightful is the finely hand-engraved motif on both sides of the case featuring roses, thistles and shamrocks symbolising England, Scotland and Ireland. Each element has been intricately engraved with beautiful cross-hatching and contrasting lines in the background. The centre of the case features a circular wreath cartouche with a family crest and motto "God Is My Help". The versatile, sleek and elegant style of these cases allows for multiple contemporary uses whether be it for carrying business cards, credit cards or some cash. A practical and chic accessory for the discerning individual and unlike anything else today - an inevitable conversation starter and a refined manner of expressing your passion for fine antiques. The case is hallmarked with full English marks on the inner bezel where it opens. *All images with other items are for display purposes, this listing is for th...
