Description

A good example of a mahogany folding campaign table which is covered in baize and could have been used either for card games or maps. Probably manufactured to be taken to the Crimea or possibly the Boer war, there is a drawer with compartments which could have been used for cards or writing materials. The brassware is heavy and well made with the whole being in excellent condition, heavy and substantial. It would be perfect for bridge players! We can discuss delivery in the UK. Payment by bank transfer, PayPal or card via telephone.
