Description

From the Berkeley collection. Introducing the exquisite Italian School Grand Duke's Maddona after Raphael, a masterpiece from the Berkley collection. This artwork captures the beauty and essence of the renowned artist, Raphael, in an astonishing 19th-century oil on paper medium. The attention to detail is remarkable, with a hand-carved grapevine frame that adds a touch of elegance. The Grand Duke Maddona is a true testament to the timeless allure of Renaissance art. Display it proudly in your home or office as a statement piece that will surely captivate all who lay their eyes upon it. Provenance Spetchey Park Worcestershire. Bought by Robert and Rose Berkley on their travels to Italy in the 1890's. An archivist from Berkley Castle suggests that the painting may have once hung in one of the bedrooms in Spetchey Park. Technique Rare and unusual oil on paper laid to board. Condition We have had the painting cleaned and the wonderful hand-carved grapevine frame restored. although Still a few minor pieces missing. Few creases to the paper Furthermore images or a video on request.
