

SA1068012

19th century portrait painting of William Morton Civil engineer

Price

GBP 550

| USD $750 | EUR 642

Item Reference: SA1068012

Date of manufacture: 1880

Dimensions

Height = 44 cm (17.3")

Width = 38 cm (15.0")

Description

Step into history with this captivating self-portrait of William Morton, a prominent 19th-century civil engineer. Known for his significant contributions to the construction of the East Lincolnshire Railway, Morton's expertise extended far beyond one project. As the superintendent of the Portugal Railway and an esteemed engineer for the London Underground, he left an indelible mark on the world of transportation. This self-portrait showcases Morton's dignified presence, capturing his unwavering determination and passion for his work. With his astute gaze and steadfast expression, you can almost feel the weight of his accomplishments. It serves as a reminder of the countless hours he dedicated to projects that shaped our modern infrastructure. Morton's legacy also includes his involvement in the Metropolitan Railway and his pivotal role in the development of Liverpool Central Station and the Mersey Tunnel. These remarkable achievements solidified his reputation as an innovative and respected engineer. The self-portrait of William Morton is an invaluable piece of history, offering a glimpse into the life and work of a true visionary. Whether you are an avid art c...

Seller Details

Antiques Decorative (Sussex)

East Sussex United Kingdom By appointment only.

Tel: 07565 761917

International Tel: +44 7565 761917