Description

4 x Rococo style Lantern Brackets * French 19th Century * Wrought Iron * With Repoussé Tole * H: 74cm (29.1") L: 87cm (34.3") French lantern brackets from the 19th century, crafted in the Rococo style, evoke a sense of elegance and historical charm. The Rococo style, popular during the 18th century, is characterized by ornate, curvilinear forms, asymmetry, and delicate embellishments, graceful scrolls, floral motifs, and whimsical curves. French lantern brackets with Repoussé Tole details are sought after by collectors and interior designers. Whether you're an antique enthusiast or simply appreciate timeless design, these lantern brackets offer a glimpse into the past, combining functionality with artistic flair. If you're considering adding a touch of vintage elegance to your space, these lantern brackets could be a captivating choice. These lantern brackets are made of wrought iron, a durable material known for its strength and malleability. The addition of the intricate details of Repoussé Tole enhance their visual appeal; Repoussé is a metalworking technique where the material is shaped by hammering from the reverse side to create a raised design.
