Description

Attributed to Douglas Annand we are of the opinion this was an original drawing for the 1932 poster competition. In 1932 Poster competition committee asked Douglas Annand and Arthur Whitmore to collaborate to produce the now-famous 19th March 1932 poster. There are clear similarities between ours and the collaborated poster. Our design clearly shows more of an art deco and feminine design than the more masculine, collaborated Sydney Harbour bridge poster design. Our drawing is Gouache on paper laid down on the artist's board. The drawing is in the original frame and mount dated March 1932 and is unsigned. Step back in time to the iconic year of 1932, when Australia's most ambitious engineering marvel, the Sydney Harbour Bridge, was nearing completion. To celebrate this monumental achievement and capture the spirit of a nation on the brink of a new era, the Sydney Harbour Bridge Australian Original Poster Design Competition was born. This historic competition invited artists and visionaries from across the country to encapsulate the grandeur and significance of the Sydney Harbour Bridge in a single poster design. Entrants were tasked with weaving together elements o...
