Description

An exquisite hand painted paper-leaf fan dating back to circa 1880, and of great delicacy. The fan is heightened with colouring, gold leaf and pierced decoration. There are three separate scenes of a corrida. The delicate ribs are intact and the fine images are still in good condition without tears. The sticks, which provide the skeletal framework, and the outer guards are also sound. The gold leaf is still lustrous. The fan is housed in a glass case, which is also in very good condition.
