Description

The 'Mina Khani' design of blue, red and yellow main flowers, interconnected by a green vine with smaller white flowers is one of the best designs in the Kurdish repertoire. When it is done well, it is sublime, as shown here. The design is irregular, full of 'faults' and 'mistakes' which is what gives it the powerful charm. The midnight blue field, also strongly abrashed, allows for a sense of depth behind the flowering vines and the golden yellow border warms it all up. Superb natural dyes and the famous, glistening Kurdish wool. Its a rare treat and im so pleased to have found such a great old rug in original, untouched condition. 4'7" x 13'2"
