Description

Probably woven around Erivan, Armenia, around 1900, this lovely rug has a very crisp interpretation of the Chi-chi design seen on 19th century East Caucasian rugs. Finely knotted with good quality wool and subtle colours derived from natural dyes, the detailed geometric field design is complemented by a finely drawn border with repeating geometric motifs on a mid-blue field. The whole composition is finely drawn and very attractive. Cherished through the generations, it has survived in very condition, and has recently been professionally cleaned. This rug would enhance many decorative settings.
