An elegant pair of Regency tripod lamp tables in mahogany, each with an octagonal top over a slender tapering fluted shaft with a knopped base over an outswept tripod with square section supports, English circa 1820. Condition: Overall very good, both tables are in very good condition with no damage or repairs, there are some marks to the tops consistent with age (see photos) but overall the tables have a great appearance with excellent colour and patina, and have very elegant proportions.
