Description

An absolutely stunning antique Victorian inlaid marquetry library table / desk. This was made in England, it dates from around the 1850-1870 period. It is of outstanding quality, standing on gorgeous barley twist legs with a finely turned stretcher base. The top is finished identically on both sides, it displays beautiful and profuse inlaid marquetry designs in various woods. There is walnut, satin wood and rosewood, to name a few. We have had this recently re-polished and there has been some minor restoration. This is in great overall condition for its age, with some minor wear and patina remaining here and there beneath the polish.
