Description

This is a George IV, mouth-blown rib-moulded glass spirit bottle dating from the beginning of the 19th century, c1830. The bottle is in excellent condition for its age. This means, of course, that it shows the age related wear and tear to the base commensurate with nearly 200 years of use. The bottle is in the green colourway and shows broad rib-moulding from the base to the pouring rim. The base measures 8 cm (3.2 inches) in diameter and has a polished out pontil mark on the underside. The bottle is 30 cm (12 inches) in height. There are no chips, cracks, significant scratches or any evidence of restoration. There is a white metal and cork stopper provided with the bottle which is period but probably not the original. It weighs in at 580 g. (~ 1 lb.).
