Description

This is an antique butler's serving tray. An English, satinwood and boxwood afternoon tea platter, dating to the Regency period, circa 1820. Attractive tray for serving guests, graced with Regency period elegance. Displays a desirable aged patina and in good order throughout. Satinwood stocks present fine grain interest and vibrant caramel hues. Centrepiece boxwood scallop shell motif set within an oval medallion. Distinctive wavy edge to tray, dressed with rolled carry handles to each end. Finished with a tactile dappled leather protective pad to the base. This is a striking antique butler's serving tray, with a quality appearance and generously sized. Solid joints and construction, delivered ready to serve.
