The circle of Godfrey Kneller oil on canvas laid onto the panel. Mrs Voss was active (circa 1685-1690) and the mistress of Sir Godfrey Kneller the Mother of Catherine (Agnes) Huckle. Unframed A much larger copy of this exists at the Collection Kingston Lacy Estate, Dorset. Biography Sir Godfrey Kneller (1646-1723) was a prominent Baroque portrait painter of Anglo-German descent, recognized as one of the leading portraitists of his time. Born on August 8, 1646, in Lübeck, Germany, Kneller was originally named Gottfried Kniller. He was the son of Zacharias Kniller, a notable Lübeck merchant, and his wife Lucia. Kneller began his artistic education in the Hanseatic city of Lübeck before moving to Amsterdam. There, he studied under Ferdinand Bol and possibly Rembrandt, gaining significant skills in painting and becoming influenced by the Dutch Golden Age of art. His early works reflected the stylistic elements of his Dutch masters, which he later adapted and evolved to create his distinctive Baroque style. In the early 1670s, Kneller travelled to Italy to further his education, studying the works of great masters such as Titian, Veronese, and Caravaggio. This period...
