Description

We are delighted to offer this stunning antique 9ct gold Edwardian pink tourmaline Belle Epoque pendant/necklace made c.1910. In "Belle Epoque" style, quite literally translating to "the beautiful era", this pendant embraces and captures the essence of beauty. Featuring an exceptionally intricate and airy design, this particular pendant is not only aesthetically delightful but also is a testament to the fine craftsmanship of the era. The circular pendant is wonderfully pierced and decorated with a millegrain mesh in the centre which allows for light to shine through and is an exceptionally refined yet distinct design. Such design allows for the necklace to be worn in a wide variety of ways such as with a blouse or perhaps a turtleneck in the cooler seasons; a versatile and splendid accessory to immediately elevate the elegance of your wardrobe. An applied gold garland sits on top of the fine background with a regal and ornate ribbon at the top, seed pearls of varying sizes and a central pink tourmaline which brings together the overall look and adds a stunning hint of contrasting colour. The border is equally fine with a wreath of seed pearls with four more...
