Description

A good example of an antique copper bucket dating from the late 19th Century. It is the perfect size for a coal or kindling bin. It is very good quality with riveted details and a swing handle. It is decorated with a border of flowers with a naive depiction of a milk maid on both sides. It is in good original condition and displays beautifully. There are no major damages but it has of course picked up some dinks and dents and signs of age and use. It has been lightly cleaned and polished to retain its beautiful natural verdigris patina. Approximate Measurements: Height : 13" / 33cm (without handle) Diameter : 13 1/2" / 35cm The best description comes from the photos so please look at them all carefully and if you have any questions just ask.
