Description

A beautiful mid 19th century coromandel and brass inlaid dressing and jewellery case. This is a first quality box, boasting brass edges, a double brass line inlay to the front and top and inside beautifully engraved silver plated locks and hinges, a Bramah lock with original key, a further key for a jewellery drawer, and four cut glass perfume bottles in a blue velvet lined compartmented tray. The front drops down to reveal a tooled leather lined drawer with silver plated flush handle, above a further lockable drawer, while the mirror inset in the lid, which is removable using a concealed button, reveals a letter compartment in tooled leather matching the drawer beneath. Circa 1860 Size: 13" (33cm) wide x 8.3/4" (22.2cm) high x 10.1/4" (26cm) deep. Stock no: 4859 Dealers note: This is a superb quality item in excellent condition and would make a wonderful gift for a special person. As with many of our boxes, the images don't do them enough justice, so feel free to come and examine them for yourself by appointment.
