Description

A small Charles II carved oak cupboard, the pegged top above a carved lunette frieze, twin panels either side of a carved door which opens on pin hinges to reveal an interior with centre shelf. The side stiles are reeded and continue down to the feet. The sides have plain panels and lunette carving just the same as the front, the back and floor are both original. An unusual small piece of oak, good original colour and condition. English /Welsh Circa 1670.
