Description

A good quality antique Edwardian mahogany desk in the Chippendale manner dating from circa 1910. In mellow well-figured mahogany it stands on elegant carved cabriole legs culminating in ball and claw feet. It has five capacious drawers, each with attractive brass swan neck handles. To the top is a tooled red leather writing surface and it features a gadrooned edge, it is a good size, offering lots of work space. In original condition with wear and marks to the top commensurate with age. Construction/Wood: Mahogany / Mahogany Veneers Condition Report: Marks to the red writing surface (see photos). Various old veneer mends to the top. The knee hole under the desk is quite low so it may benefit to be raised up on castors Dimensions: Width: 125cm Height: 75cm Depth: 62cm Height to Underneath: 59cm Middle Drawer Internal: 41cm Wide x 44cm Deep x 7cm High RHS Drawer Internal: 26cm Wide x 44cm Deep x 7cm High
