Description

Wrought iron weather vane from the early 20th Century, a charming testament to the artistry and craftsmanship of the period. The weather vane is beautifully crafted from wrought iron, a material known for its durability and rustic appeal. Over the years, it has developed a lovely weathered patina that adds to its antique charm. The design of the weather vane is particularly delightful, featuring a pig carrying a piglet on her back. This whimsical motif is not only endearing but also quite unique, making this piece a standout addition to any collection. The pig and piglet are rendered in exquisite detail, from the curve of their bodies to the expression on their faces, showcasing the skill and creativity of the artisan who created this piece. Whether you're a collector of antique weather vanes or simply appreciate unique decorative items, this wrought iron weather vane is sure to captivate. Its blend of practical function, artistic design, and historical value make it a truly special find. This piece would make a wonderful addition to a farmhouse, country home, or any space where rustic charm is appreciated. It's not just a weather vane, it's a piece of history that tell...
