Description

Franklin D. Briscoe (1844-1903) - Framed Oil Painting on canvas. "Fishing Boats on the French Coast". A dramatic and imposing heavy gilt framed oil painting, depicting a large two-masted fishing vessel with French flag, making way under stormy clouds, with sails reefed in choppy seas, surrounded by smaller manned vessels, some also under sail, pulling their catch aboard, with attendant seagulls. The detail, clouds and choppy seas are of particular note. Signed to the lower left corner, and Dated verso: 1893, also entitled "Fishing Boats on the French Coast". Dimensions (Frame): Height: 44 inches; Width: 38 inches. (112 x 97 cm). Franklin Dulin BRISCOE (1844-1903). Born in Baltimore, Maryland USA. Died Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, USA. Franklin D. Briscoe studied with Edward Moran, a notable painter of marine scenes. Briscoe travelled throughout his life, visiting Art Museums in London, Paris and other European cities. Following periods of study both in Paris and London, he had hoped to settle in France, but the outbreak of the Franco-Prussian War forced him to establish his studio in the United States. His seascapes, for which he was best known were inspired by his own...
