Description

A Lovely Mappin and Webb Victorian Oak and Brass Tantalus from around 1880. Crafted with precision and care, this piece boasts a sturdy brass handle attached to elegant oak columns adorned with charming brass accents. The base features intricately carved oak sides that hold a sliding tray, embellished with Gothic revival brass fittings at each corner. Complete with its original Bramah lock and key, the sliding tray showcases three well-preserved cut glass decanters with original facet cut stoppers. Brass plaque with registration number and dated 1880. The rich colour of this rare Victorian treasure will undoubtedly enhance any living space, adding a touch of sophistication and delight to your drink-serving experience for you and your guests. Mappin & Webb has a rich history, dating back to 1775 when Jonathan Mappin started a silver workshop in Sheffield. In 1860, John Mappin founded Mappin & Company in London, later becoming Mappin, Webb & Co. In 1862, the first store opened on Oxford Street, London, offering silverware, candelabras, and vanity products. The company expanded to jewelry design and acquired Mappin Brothers in 1903. By the 1950s, the Regent Street store bec...
