Description

An extremely rare and important Victorian antique silver double pomander on a stand. Made in London in 1896 by the company of Saunders and Shepherd. It is in excellent condition with no damage or repairs. It consists of two pomanders in the shape of poppy heads on stems which are placed in the leaf shaped stand. All items are fully hallmarked and there are also registration marks on the base. The seed head of the poppy comes off to allow replenishing of the perfume. Pomanders reformed a similar task to a vinaigrette. WEIGHT; 78 grams. Free delivery in the UK. Payment by bank transfer, card over the phone, PayPal or Klarna. Using Klarna payments can be split over three months.
