Description

A small oak table dating from the early 20th century. It has a planked overhanging top and stands on turned legs joined by square stretchers. It is nicely finished on all sides so would suit a side table or a centre table. It is in good condition with a lovely patina and is strong and sturdy. There are signs of age and use, some surface marks and minor knocks but it is a good honest table and it displays well. It has been cleaned and given a gentle polish and is ready for use. The best description comes from the photos so please look at them all carefully and if you have any questions just ask. Nationwide delivery available through our network of reliable couriers.
