Description

19th-century brown leather cockfighting chair This antique cockfighting chair is a remarkable piece of 19th-century craftsmanship, combining elegance with historical significance. The chair features a sturdy mahogany frame, known for its durability and rich, reddish-brown hue. The mahogany wood displays a beautiful patina, indicative of its age and the care it has received over the years. The seat and backrest are upholstered in brown button-tufted leather, which, though worn, exudes a timeless charm. The leather's wear adds character, highlighting the chair's long history and the many events it has witnessed. The button-tufting creates a classic, luxurious look, while also providing a comfortable seating experience. Designed for comfort during long periods, the chair has a deep, reclining seat and supportive armrests, allowing spectators to sit back and relax. The high backrest provides additional support and is also upholstered in the same worn brown leather, ensuring a cohesive and sophisticated appearance. This chair not only serves as a functional piece of furniture but also as a historical artefact, reflecting the social customs and leisure activities of the ...
