Description

An early 19th century farmhouse table, of good solid form. Chamfering on the inside of the legs, cockbead moulding arounds the bottoms of the rails and around the drawers. The drawers have elm linings, the drawer fronts and the base of the table are made from ash and oak, the plank and cleated top constructed from pine. The table has superb colour and patination, there are some old stains on the top and some traces of old wood worm holes, which is no longer active. Excellent table, in great condition and very solid. Measurements Height 76cm x length 189.5cm x depth 83cm Height to the underside of the rails 58cm, (perfect clearance for legs and chairs).
