Description

A rare and beautiful Baluch tribal rug in excellent condition made in the Sistan region circa 1880. Another rug I have been reunited with recently and after 30 years of being enjoyed elsewhere, it is lovely to have it back in the fold! The unusual ground colour resembles burnt-orange with three central rectangles comprising 'Mushwani' type lozenges. Very finely knotted, the outer 'laleh abassi' border is beautifully drawn and frames the rug in the most stunning way. It is complete with short kilim skirts each end. Size: 1.70m x 0.94m (5' 7" x 3' 1").
