Description

Rare Early 18th Century Antique Oak Dining Table. This is a wonderful English early antique oak dining tavern table that dates to around 1700. It has a fantastic single piece large slab table top in oak that is held firmly by four, original oak splayed square table legs. A remarkable survivor and in such good original condition and a great colour. Perfect to use as an early Georgian antique dining table as it is a good height or as a console side table.

Dimensions Height: 74cm (29.37") Width: 164cm (65.08") Depth: 67cm (26.59") Additional Info The 7cm thick oak table top tapers slightly at one end from 67cm to 51cm.
