Description

A signed antique Royal Vienna porcelain gilt and hand-painted cobalt blue vase. It features a hand-painted central cartouche depicting a young maiden playing with a cherub, who has taken away her wreath of flowers. The picture is signed by the artist Riemer in the lower right. It is richly decorated with two-tone gilt decoration, raised gold jewelery, and white enamel jewelery throughout. The vase has a cobalt blue background, and the frame of the cartouche, as well as the upper and lower rims, are decorated in gold. The hand-painted Royal Vienna items are extremely detailed and well-designed. The painter Riemer is one of the most respected artists who worked at the Vienna Porcelain Manufactory. The porcelain painted by him is of greater artistic and commercial value than many other works of the Vienna Porcelain Manufactory. The vase bears the beehive mark of the Imperial & Royal Manufactory "Royal Vienna," corresponding to the mentioned period, stamped asymmetrically in blue underglaze. There is also an inscription on the base "Grazie u. Amor" ("Grace and Cherub"). Royal Vienna porcelain is the product of the Vienna Porcelain Manufactory, founded in 1718 and continued un...
